We know how precious and vulnerable your CTG traces are. Protect them now with our new service

The Problem

Often the trace goes missing from the notes or is misplaced or lost. Ironically it is usually the most important traces that go missing as these are the ones that are passed around for review and teaching.

CTG's have a short shelf life before the tracings fade or disappear altogether.

Failure to produce all relevant clinical information can severely compromise the defence of a future claim and there is no time limit during the life of a claimant when a case can be brought.

Long term electronic storage of the CTG's are now imperative and recommended by both NICE and CNST.

Unique Service

Our new unique CTG Protection Service is another truly innovative step to help preserve essential medical records.

How the Solution Works

- You send us your paper CTG original by secure mail.
- We will return to you four things:

1. The original CTG.
2. A paper copy of the CTG on continuous z-fold paper, just like the original (not A4!).
3. A digital copy on CD for you to view in group presentations.
4. A certificate of equivalence and authenticity, confirming that the copied CTG is at least as good a quality as the original.

We will also send you a reference number against which you can order further paper or digital copies if you wish.

Your pack will contain your duplicate trace on paper and on CD, plus a certificate of authenticity.
